Assistant Director-General of Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) Abdul Hakim Al-Waer considered on Monday, convening of the Organization's Conference for the Near East and North Africa in Baghdad will be an opportunity to mobilize support for Iraq.

"Holding the 36th session of FAO Conference comes at a very difficult and challenging time, including water scarcity, climate and Corona pandemic, in addition to the abnormal climatic conditions that Iraq is going through," said Al-Waer in an exclusive statement to the Iraqi News Agency (INA).

He added, "The conference is held in partnership between the organization and Iraq, and it is an opportunity to draw the attention of the world, the region and neighboring countries to the importance of Iraq and the necessity of solidarity, in addition to mobilizing support to provide opportunities for cooperation in agricultural development and achieving food security,"
