N1 (7 February 2022)

European Commission spokesman Peter Stano denied media reports that European Union envoy Miroslav Lajcak was handed a proposal on organizing the vote at the coming Serbian elections in Kosovo.

Stano told the Serbian-language KoSSev news portal that Lajcak was not given a proposal and conditions for the vote. The Demokracia.com portal quoted what it said were diplomatic sources on Sunday who said that Kosovo deputy Prime Minister Besnik Bislimi handed Lajcak the proposal. The Albanian-language portal claimed that Pristinas conditions included a sign at all polling stations saying Serbian Liaison Office in Kosovo and that the OSCE mission should organize the vote without allowing political parties to campaign based on reciprocity for the citizens of Kosovo living in Serbia.

Stano said that the European Commission does not comment what its partners propose but that in this case the claims are not true. He said that Lajcak was told nothing of the kind in Pristina.
