Ma Xingrui meets leaders of the Central Asian nation on his first trip abroad since taking the top regional job

The Communist Party chief of Xinjiang in Chinas far west is making a rare trip abroad, heading a delegation visiting neighbouring Kazakhstan on a trade mission.

In talks in Astana on Monday, Kazakh Prime Minister Alikhan Smailov told the group, led by Xinjiang Communist Party chief Ma Xingrui, that Kazakhstan would streamline cargo traffic into China by removing bottlenecks at border checkpoints.
