Taiwan's first batch of M1A2T tanks purchased from the United States has arrived and been transported to an army armor training center in Hsinchu County early Monday morning.

The first 38 M1A2T tanks, a variant of M1 Abrams, were delivered to the Port of Taipei in New Taipei's Bali District on Sunday. Before this, deliveries of the last type of tank Taiwan received from the U.S., the M60A3, began in 1994.

This delivery is the first batch of 108 M1A2T tanks and related equipment that the U.S. government approved to sell to Taiwan in 2019.
