George Simion, who was defeated in the second round of the Romanian presidential election on May 18, wants the elections to be annulled.

Far-right, pro-Russian candidate George Simion, who lost the presidential elections held in Romania in two rounds on May 4 and May 18, 2025, demanded the cancellation of the elections. Making a statement on the subject, Simion claimed that the elections were interfered with by state and non-state actors.

In his statement, Simion addressed the Constitutional Court and officially requested that it annul the elections held in May 2025. Emphasizing that the reason for the annulment request was the same as the annulment of the December elections, Simion claimed that the elections were intervened by external interventions of state and non-state actors. Stating that neither France nor Moldova nor any other country has the right to interfere in the elections of another state, Simion called on all Romanians to put pressure on the Constitutional Court.
