The Straits Times (15 June 2025)

Cambodia said on June 15 it has asked the International Court of Justice (ICJ) to resolve its border disputes with Thailand, after a flare-up in the long-running row led them to mobilise troops on both sides of the border.

A Cambodian soldier was killed in a brief skirmish on May 28 in a confrontation over the 820km frontier, parts of which are undemarcated and claimed by both nations.

Cambodia chooses a peaceful resolution based on international law through the ICJ mechanism for solving the border dispute, Prime Minister Hun Manet posted on Facebook.
