A member of the Armenian civil society delegation participating in the Peace Bridge meetings with their Azerbaijani counterparts has said that the initiatives goal is to develop new approaches and opportunities, alongside existing history and narratives, aimed at advancing the peace agenda.

Areg Kochinyan, the President of the Armenian Council Research Center and coordinator of the initiative, made the remarks at a press briefing in Yerevan after returning from the Azerbaijani city of Gabala, where the latest meeting was held on 10-12 April.

Kochinyan said that the fact that four meetings have taken place so far is already an important achievement.
