Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan said that his Civil Contract ruling party's mission is the signing and ratification of the initialed peace agreement with Azerbaijan.

We cannot leave the people's government on the street. The mandate given to us by the people must be fulfilled to the end: the Peace Agreement must be signed and ratified, and we will consider our mission accomplished, Pashinyan said at a press conference.

The Prime Minister also responded to a journalist's question about whether the government is concerned that Armenia could turn from a democratic state into an authoritarian state.
