Hundreds of students from multiple cities across Serbia began a four-day march on Tuesday to Kragujevac, where a mass protest is set to take place on Saturday.

On Thursday, Serbian students from multiple cities including the capital Belgrade continued to march toward the central city of Kragujevac for a protest rally set for Saturday.

The demonstrations led by university students demand accountability and justice for the deaths of 15 people in a train station awning collapse last November, which critics have blamed on government corruption.
