Armenian Security Council Secretary Alen Simonyan has said he sees a practical readiness on Azerbaijan's part to continue steps towards deepening the peace process between the two countries.

Speaking to journalists, Simonyan said Yerevan and Baku had agreed to continue working on unresolved issues, including the fate of detainees and missing persons, NEWS.am reports.

I see that the Azerbaijani side is taking and will take all the steps related to peace that it can afford at this point, Simonyan said.
